Quality Assurance!

Petcurean Pet Nutrition takes quality control seriously! Go! Natural pet foods not only comes with excellent nutrition, they are backed up with a conscientious and serious quality assurance program that includes strict safety measures. All of our products are manufactured at facilities which are approved or certified by the CFIA (Canadian Food Inspection Agency), FDA (US Food and Drug Administration), and E.U. (European Union). Other plant safeguards include third party independent auditing by NSF-Cook & Thurber, and the American Institute of Baking, both organizations used for human food audits. Between each production run, we demand a complete cleaning and sanitation to ensure the integrity of our foods.

Go! Natural Grain Free Endurance Formula

The Right Formula for the Right Reasons

Grain Free diets sold today have been marketed to emulate raw diets. These diets do not contain wheat, corn, barley, oats, rice or any other grains. However, in most cases today, grain free foods contain up to triple the amount of protein and fat commonly found in raw diets and double the amount found in conventional dry formulas.

Many veterinarians, nutritionists and consumers are uncomfortable with the extra load put on the kidneys and liver from the high levels of protein and fat found in most grain free diets today. The question is, are these concerns warranted? Contrary to consumer perception, raw diets today contain low to moderate levels of protein and fat. It is also a proven fact that excess amounts of protein found in foods for dogs are excreted through the system and wasted, while these same excess amounts can force the kidneys and liver to work harder than they are required to.

After careful consideration and consultation with qualified nutritionists and veterinarians, we want to assure you that your pet is getting a safe, healthy and convenient grain free formula.

Each batch of our food is subjected to our comprehensive triple check safety program before, during and after production.

Based on facts and testing, our company believes that Grain Free diets with safe, appropriate levels of protein and fat may be right for your dog in situations where:

1. You suspect a grain allergy
2. You are concerned about toxin recalls involving grains
3. Your dog is active, on the go and sustaining long periods of activity (Endurance)

Go! Natural Grain Free Endurance formula does not include the high levels of protein and fat found in most grain free diets today, however it does contain appropriate levels to meet all the needs listed above. Safe levels of protein also help reduce the concerns of the overload on the liver and kidneys while decreasing waste and maintaining stool consistency. Your dog can still enjoy the great taste of 70% meat in his diet
